TEACHERS'GOLUMN.

Anderson Intelligencer.

J. G. CLINKSCALES, EDITOR. Mr. : Watkins writes: "We have enrolled over one hundred pupils. I think they are interested in their studies, and they are progressing rapidly."

Miss Alice Davis writes: "I require my pupils to write once each day, enough to accomplish one page a week. I write copies for some, but do not require them to hold the pen in a particular position. I am using the Spencerian system of pen-

A Greenville County teacher writes, "I enjoy the Teachers' Column in the INTELLIGENCER so much. It is the very idea. Your work and interest make me complish much good."

From a patron of a public school we have a communication which we would like to publish, but can not, as he neglected to give us his name. We do not want his name for publication necessanication. We would be glad to hear from patrons of the public schools at any

We sometimes have to do what is extremely unpleasant to us. Last week we had occasion to brand one teacher a plagiariet. It was painful to us. Is that sickening. From a moral standpoint he night, with equal propriety, have stolen my breakfast or my purse. We felt that guage in dealing with that case, and we did it. Let the consequences be what

Mr. W. L. Mitchell writes: "I am proud that such a medium as the Teachers' Column has been originated in the County. It supplies a desideratum, and is bound to stimulate the teachers of the County. Their knowledge of the fact that, if their plans of managing their schools and instructing their pupils do not meet the approval of the Commissioner, the same will be brought before the public, and will have a great ten- lugubrious. dency to work them up. I hope the Teachers' Column will grow in interest."

Our sole object in mentioning the plans we approve or disapprove is to improve the teachers, thereby improving the pupils and all concerned. When we disapprove or criticise, we call no name to prevent the chagrin which publicity in some instances would occasion. No one but the teacher need know who is referred to unless she is disposed to mention it herself. For that we are not responsible. By criticising plans we hope to benefit not only the teacher whose plans occasion the criticism, but others who may have the same plans. It will be impossible for us to visit all the schools this session; sickness and bad weather have interfered with our programme. Through the Teachers' Column we hope to accomenlightenment, of general information, of common school advantages, there are many men, many sensible, energetic men who can not write their own names. There is no excuse for it. It is a fact that many honest, hard working farmers still hold to the old custom of making their marks when called upon to write their names. Any thoughtful man can, without losing any time from his regular work, in a very short time, learn to read spend Sundays more profitably than in trying to learn to read.

This week we have reported to us by at a time, remain out as long as they when they return, if they ever do, study out in a tone of voice loud enough to be house. No wonder so many persons magic power has been and ought to be abolished. No wonder The teacher holds a First Grade Certifiiness won't do. She ought to know that such a thing is not worth the name of school. She ought to know that the people of Anderson County will not be humbugged everlastingly in such a style as that. She must know that the Board of Examiners and Trustees do not propose to tolerate such farcical concerns. We hope to call very soon and see for ourselves.

During our recent very pleasant visit to the Williamston Female College, we were struck with the earnestness and perfect self-control of Prof. J. M. Lander. He had a class in trigonometry. Evidently, he was master, not only of the lesson, but of the entire subject. In the class were two of our former pupils. Their smiles of welcome made us feel very much at home, and they may be assured that their former teacher is proud of their success. They talked so intelligently about sines and co-sines, tangents and co-tangents, etc., that once, fearing that the Professor might call on us for an like we better fly off at a tangent our-

THE YEAR AMONG THE INDIANS.

Commissioner Price says that the nation expended an average of seven dollars per capita to feed and clothe the Indians during the last year, but admits that the cost of each soldier is one thousand dollow many bones in the leg from the lars a year, and that the chief business feel that you are the right man in the right place, and I believe you will ac- frontier. To feed and clothe the savages costs about two million dollars a year, and to fight them costs many 'imes that amount. While the Indian Commis-sioner thus admits that the Indians take millions of dollars from the treasury annually, he recognizes the possibility of raising them to a condition in which they will need no pecuniary aid. He com-mends the work of the Indian schools, rily, but it must accompany the commu-nication. We would be clad to hear courts, with members of the tribes as officers, and urges more generous encouragement for Indians who are disposed to ecome independent through their own industry. His suggestions should not be unheeled by Congressmen.

It is probable that our entire Indian population can be made self-supporting within a quarter of a century, if only schools are provided for those who are too strong? Well, the thought of a willing to learn, with suitable rewards teacher's being guilty of plagiarism is for pupils who qualify themselves for some industrial occupation. A farm of one hundred and sixty acres of good land, with implements and stock, should be given to each Indian who learns how o manage it, and an equipment of tools should be offered as a reward for each Indian who fits himself for the work of a mechanic. It will pay to expend enough now to make our savages self-supporting citizens, rather than to always expend millions of dollars annually for their upport as vagabonds .- Advocate.

Making Money Easily.

I once heard an eminent Georgian say that he had "made money with disgust-ing facility." This apt and striking phrase has a world of meaning attached it now and then. For instance, there is a young Jewish lawyer who comes to this city every winter and manages great and write sufficiently, at least, to sign his own name when necessary. "Too much work to do" is no excuse. His neighbor seldom met a more captivating man, and will teach him to read on Sundays if he his tact is equal to his talent. He has can spare no other time. He can not numerous accomplishments, speaks several languages, and appears to have seen all the places worth inspecting and to know all persons whose acquaintance is desirable. He says: "I make money so easily and abundantly that it is getting one of the trustees a school (?) that knows no discipline. The Sun.

The sun is more than one hundred imes the diameter of the earth. The combined planets, many of them many times larger than the earth, are as nothing to it. It seems a ball of fire; upon it are seen spots, around it are per-ceived strange lights, yet we have little idea of the nature of what we see. Tie sun is a mystery yet. What is a man to the earth he lives on? What is the earth to the solar system? But what, again, is the solar system to the universe? Every star we see is a sun, perhaps as large or larger than our own, perhaps surrounded by a system of planets more or less like those the names of which are familiar to us! Above us, across the like unto the first forming of a cloud.
Astronomers tell us that this Milky Way is a congeries of distant stars: that the stars we see are but the portion of the of these stars, and that the solar system, with all the other stars, is probably rotating around some central point which we are as yet in ignorance of. Yet man, the tiny habitant of this tiny globe, be that the Professor might call on us for an lieves himself the object for which the expression of epinion, we felt somewhat universe exists: -Philadelphia Record.

The President's Health Hobby,

If the President has one hobby above another in connection with selecting office holders, it is on the subject of health. When a name is presented for his consideration, and after he has satisfied himself that the candidate has the moral and intellectual qualifications, he invariably follows it up with something after this style: "What sort of a looking man is he?" "How much does he weigh?" "Is he in perfect health?" "Do you think he could perform hard work and still keep his physical condi-tion unimpaired?" The President likes a robust man, and believes that it is a mistake to put men into office who are more than likely to either neglect their

"Grace was in all her steps, Heaven in her In every gesture dignity and love !"

So appeared Mother Eve, and so may shine her fair descendants, with the exercise of common sense, care and proper treatment. An enormous number of female complaints are directly caused by disturbance or suppression of the Mensterling and unfailing specific, Bradville and unfailing specific, Bradville and unfailing specific, Bradville and cure.

It is from the recipe of a most distinguished physician. It is composed of arrictly official ingredients, whose happy combination has never been surpassed. It is prepared with scientific skill from the fonest materials. It bears the paim for constancy of strength, certainty of effect, elegance of preparation, beauty of special papearance and relative cheapness. The testimony in its favor is genuine. It never fails when fairly tried.

This will certify that two members of my immediate family, after having suffered for many years from mensirual irregularity, and having been treated without benefit by various medical doctors, were at length completely cured by one bottle of Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Begulator. Its effect in such cases is truly wonderful, and well may the remied be called "Woman's Best Friend."

Yours Respectfully,

JAMES W. STRANGE.
